

Scarf Rings

are the ruling fad in the East, and are fast becoming so here.

Worn with a handsome silk tie, nothing can be more swell. Swell dressers take to them at sight.

We have a splendid stock of new creations in these rings, from the simple Roman gold band to the elaborate chased and gem-set ring, and at prices varying from Six Dollars to One Hundred and Fifty.

We have also just received an unusually attractive assortment of

Lace and Scarf Pins

In the new "BAROQUE PEARL," which makes the most attractive piece of jewelry imaginable. If you have not seen them, we would be pleased to show them the next time you are in.

In fact, our stock is very full all along the line, and we are in a position to fill every want.

The Days of Tight Belts Are Over Cling-Surface

"CLING-SURFACE" IS A BELT filler, which produces a clean, clinging surface on the belt after it has penetrated the belt, and it is a belt preservative, making and keeping the leather, cotton or rope flexible and elastic, vastly increasing its life. It also acts perfectly on rubber belts.

One-third more power is transmitted by its use, or in other words, a belt two-thirds as large will transmit the power if "Cling-Surface" is used.

Send for a sample ten-pound tin.

Price 50c per lb.

LITTLE GIANT FIRE EXTINGUISHER

YANKEE SHOEMAKERS

Not Drawn to the Scheme of Hill.

REFUSE TO TAKE STOCK

Proposed Shoe Factory for Honolulu Does Not Interest Lynn Capitalists.

From present indications the shoe factory, which Mr. Henry Hill, an Eastern promoter, has been trying to establish in Honolulu, has reached a standstill in its development. Whether or not the enterprise will be brought to any state of completion, or whether the venture will stay in its present fix remains to be seen.

The plan as outlined by Mr. Henry Hill is as follows: An incorporated stock company with a capital stock of $25,000 is to be formed, a factory erected and machinery sufficient to turn out two hundred pairs of shoes a day is to be built. When Hill came to the Islands he succeeded in interesting Mr. W. R. Castle, Mr. Weaver and several other gentlemen in his scheme. They would not agree, however, to subscribing the entire amount desired. Mr. Weaver told the promoter that if he were able to raise $12,500 elsewhere, a like amount would be raised in the Hawaiian Islands. This was agreed to, and in a few days the sum stipulated was on the subscription list. Of this 10 per cent was paid in and the manufacturing left for the States.

When next heard from Hill was in the city of Lynn, Massachusetts. He laid the matter before the millionaire shoemakers of the New England city, but they refused to take hold of it. Whether they feared that the enterprise was too visionary and too lacking in the elements that make fulfillment probable, Hill has not stated in his letters. All that is known is that, like Columbus, when eager to prove the rotundity of the earth to the Spanish geographers, Hill has passed from capitalist to capitalist without snake-charming any one of them.

So far he has not found his Isabella. In his last letter Hill had come further West, and was busy showing the capitalists of St. Louis the advantages that would result from being stockholders in a Honolulu shoe factory.

Hill seems to have all faith in his scheme. He has placed orders with several large houses furnishing shoe machinery, orders that are to be filled as soon as he gives the word. He has been busy advocating the enterprise with which he is the prime mover, for several months, and his letters, while expressing regrets that he has as yet been unsuccessful in making other people think as he does, are, at the same time, filled with hope in ultimate success.

Hope is not filling the breasts of those in Honolulu who signed the subscription list that shows where the other half of the money is coming from. There is beginning to be room in the breasts of these for something else. As one gentleman said yesterday, who is acquainted with the affairs of the concern, "The subscribers have not yet come to the conclusion that things are pau, but there is a growing feeling that they might as well kiss the percentage they paid in a fond good-bye and consider the incident closed."

PICTURES GET MIXED.
Troubles of a Honolulu Watchmender Over a Photo Fad.

"Have you got a picture in this watch?" asked a local watch-fixer yesterday as he took over a gold time-piece for repairs.

"Why I ask is this. Nearly every time I open a watch case a picture of some good-looking woman falls out. I lay it aside with the rest of 'em, but when the watch is repaired I can't tell which from what. So I tell my customers to look over the collection and take any picture they want. Sometimes mistakes occur. The other day a goo-goo-eyed dame rushed in and said: 'Look here, mister, did my husband have this watch fixed at your shop?' I said he did. 'Well,' said she, 'what I want to know is whether that picture was in it when you took the watch?' It was the photo of a staving-looking half-white. I told the lady that it must be a mix-up and explained my troubles with these pictures. 'I guessed I had picked out the wrong face for her husband's watch. 'Well, I am thankful,' she said; 'he told me all that, but I thought it might be a song and dance.'"

"UNITED STATES" IS SINGULAR

J. W. Foster Gives a List of Authorities for That Construction.

In his recently published work on "A Century of American Diplomacy" General John W. Foster, former Secretary of State, uses the singular verb in connection with the United States, and is called to account therefor by a prominent critic, who admonishes him that "to make United States a singular noun would require an amendment to the Federal Constitution."

Mr. Foster has spent considerable time and labor in making an investigation of this subject, and concludes from all the testimony he has been able to gather that the point is not well taken. "I have found," said Mr. Foster this morning, "that in the early days of the republic the prevailing practice was the use of the plural, but even then many public men employed the singular, and of late years the latter has become the rule. Among statesmen who have habitually used the singular verb are:

"Hamilton, Jefferson, Seward, Blaine, Edmunds, E. J. Phelps, Webster, Benton, Fish, Frelinghuysen, Motley, Reid, Cresham, Silas Wright, Marcy, Evans, Bayard, Charles Francis Adams, Depew, Olney.

"Of living professors of international law Woolsey, of Yale; Moore, of Columbia; Hufcutt, of Cornell, and James C. Carter, of New-York, use the singular. Andrew Jackson was the first President to adopt the singular verb in his official papers. In the earlier messages of the Presidents the plural form is usually found, but since Lincoln all of them, including Grant, Harrison and McKinley, have invariably used the singular. In the decisions of the Supreme Court during the first half century the plural form is generally used, but the singular appears occasionally. In later years the court has used the singular. The same remark applies to treaties with foreign nations."—Washington Correspondence of the Chicago Record-Herald.

All ladies are invited.

TWO CHILDREN ALMOST DROWNED

But for Timely Aid Little Portuguese Would be Missing.

What might have been a fatal accident was averted yesterday by the prompt action of Jimmie Fox.

Mr. Fox was standing in the door of Harrison's planing mill waiting to see some one connected with the business office. As he was looking up and down the street, a little Portuguese girl passed by carrying an infant some six or eight months old. In walking across a narrow foot-bridge that spans a stream near the mill she did not wait until she had reached the end before stepping off it but when about two-thirds over stepped from the bridge upon some soft mud. In doing so her foot slipped and she fell into a pool of water three or four feet in depth. In her struggles she dragged the little one under with her and in a few moments both were half choked, to say nothing of being almost frightened to death. Mr. Fox ran to their assistance and soon had them on dry land.

Had he not seen them fall into the water as he did, there is no question but that they would have been drowned. The children were unobserved by any one else in the planing mill, and the street was quite deserted at the time the accident took place.

HOW TO CARE FOR SHOES.

Shoes form an important part of every lady's attire, and the care of them, especially among the fashionable, is a matter of moment. As much consideration should be given to the feet as to any other part of the body; and every woman should know how to care for her shoes. It is necessary to clean and polish them when muddy and shabby, but varnish should be used sparingly, as it ruins the leather.

With patent leather shoes a careful person will use a certain kind of cream. The shoe is then polished with a soft flannel rag, which gives it a pretty luster, and it is much better than varnish.

A splendid dressing for kid and morocco is plain jet black ink, and is perfectly harmless, also the most durable. Apply the ink, let it dry, and then rub with a dry cloth to take off the superfluous ink. When this is done beat the white of an egg thin (not to a froth) and apply with the finger.

To clean shoes properly it is necessary to use "trees" made to fit them to prevent wrinkling the leather. If, however, the shoe is wrinkled, the wrinkles can be removed by putting the shoe on a "tree" and dampening with a wet cloth or sponge and smoothing it out with a paper cutter or any kind of bone knife.—New York World.
